

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION, IMPLICATION, AND SUGGESTION

A. Conclusion

Based on the analysis in the previous chapter, the study comes to the following conclusions. Firstly, in this part research use Sigmund Freud's theory, psychoanalytic approach to analysis the feeling of frustration and sadness.

Based on the results of the discussion in the previous chapters, it is hereby the author attracted the following attention: Through the character Mia Hall in the novel If I Stay, Gayle Forman describes Mia Hall's character life as a girl of seven twelve years who said, prone to panic, anxiety, despair, compassion, no helpless, difficult to communicate, and inferior. Through character analysis, Mia Hall figures can be described as a teenage girl who loves music especially cello and loves those close to him, has a soft and appreciative heart Friendship because he wants trouble to disaster problems that too he a quiet girl, is a, prone to panic, clueless, no helpless, tough at the same time fragile and difficult to communicate. Life can be very harsh and unfair and sometimes painful but no matter how hard it is, don't be never give up, don't stop struggling and keep looking forward. Because of death the ultimate substitute for everything.

B. Implication

This research analysed Mia hall's frustration and sadness in if I stay novel, using the psychoanalysis as the approach. And the educational implication stated as follows:

1. This paper affords a reference for more researchers who want to study If I Stay novel
2. This paper also can be reference for student or public who looking for Mia Hall's frustration and sadness reflected in If I Stay novel as an issue
3. For student, this paper can be information to enhance knowledge about Mia Hall's frustration and sadness reflected in If I Stay novel

4. This paper can be data for student to understand more about the frustration and sadness or the novel itself
5. Student can realize and understand how frustration and sadness affect in daily life also be able to overcome the feeling itself

C. Suggestion

Suggestions that can be conveyed in connection with research on this work as follows, in this study, the author only discusses the main character of Mia Hall, so there are many other interesting themes that are important to research. Among others, conflict, family strength, friendship and so on. Therefore, the authors suggest in Faculty of Teacher Training and Education especially for students who take the Department of English Education in order to be able to discuss this novel more continue again. Through literature there are many benefits and lessons that we can get as learning for us humans as individual beings as well as social beings to be wiser in facing any realities of life.